

Vivet Therapeutics, a biotechnology company researching a potential treatment for Wilson disease, is looking to speak with patients and caregivers in the Wilson disease community.

The meeting (by phone or zoom) would take about 30-45 minutes and would include such questions as:

- when did you learn about Wilson disease?
- how does it affect your daily life?
- what your hopes are for the future?

Vivet's goal is to support greater understanding and awareness - your story would not be used to promote any clinical trial or product but may be used in disease awareness initiatives with your permission. If you are interested, or would like to learn more, please contact Judi Keller or Vivet's patient advocacy contact: lgorski@lorigorski.com.

Thank you for your consideration!
